DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities:

The title on the Abstract page above "Abstract of the Disclosure" should be removed.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Paielli in view of Hanisko.

Re claims 1-13, Paielli teaches a brake pad for an vehicle, the brake pad comprising: a pad portion (42) disposed on the base member, the pad portion being constructed from a substantially non-conductive dielectric material; and first pair of capacitive plates (24, 26) disposed in the pad portion and arranged such that wear of the pad portion changes the capacitance between the first pair of capacitive plates. However, Paielli does not teach a base member. Hanisko teaches a brake pad for a vehicle comprising a base member (15). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have included a base member in the invention of Paielli to provide additional support of the brake lining as is well known in the art.

Re claims 2 and 3, Paielli teaches wherein the pad portion is adapted to contact either a drum rotor or a disc rotor. (Column 2, lines 49-55)

Re claims 7-10, Paielli teaches wherein a second pair of capacitance plates (C3, C4) disposed within the pad portion and arranged such that capacitance between the second pair does not change with wear of the pad portion. (Column 3, lines 30-38)

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments filed September 20, 2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The insulative material is broadly readable by the examiner as a portion of the pad which and is subject to wear and in contact with the capacitive plates. Therefore, the rejection above is maintained.

Conclusion

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
